

Your business changing the future for cats

You and your colleagues can make a lasting change to the future of cats across the UK by getting involved in Cat Protection's education work!

If your employer offers support and time out for volunteering activities then why not get involved, for just a few hours each year you can gain new skills, confidence, meet new people and have fun!

If you are an employer and want to discuss how your business can make a lasting change to cats across the UK and give your employees an opportunity to engage in something fun and worthwhile please get in touch.

Contact us today for Employer Supported Volunteering opportunities in our Education team.

" It's so rewarding to feel you are giving something back and it's great to see children so enthusiastic about animals and keen to share their experiences. You get the feeling you are doing something really worthwhile and if it helps improve life for one cat now or sometime in the future, then you've achieved something wonderful".
