

Why your donations matter

At Cats Protection, we never know who will come through our doors next. When eight-year-old Boots arrived, we could never have guessed at first glance what we'd discover when we took a closer look. Boots' x-ray showed that she'd been cruelly shot with a shotgun and had 14 pellets in her body.

Thanks to the x-ray, the vet was able to safely remove as many of the pellets as possible, only leaving the ones that were too dangerous to operate on.

Every year, thousands of cats in our care need surgeries. Either like the one Boots had, or for different kinds of injuries and health conditions. Your support is crucial in helping us look after them before, during and after their operations, staying prepared for anything we might find.

could buy blankets to keep cats cosy while they recover from surgery

£30

could provide a cat with their first vaccinations and veterinary exam

£10

could feed a cat in our care for 40 days

£50

could help provide life-saving medical treatment for a cat in our care

Your donation means we can help the next cat through our doors.
